ORAL HISTORY IN THE HISTORY OF BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH

Workshop, 19.6.2019

Since the mid-20th century the method of Oral History has been used in the history of science. What is the role of interviews in our history writing today? We will discuss in a workshop with Dr. Jenny Bangham (University of Cambridge, UK) this question with reference to several ongoing research projects that explore the history of late twentieth century biomedical research.
